

Traction Regulators

There were two Lucas models used on Tractions, the RB95 and the RB106, both are extremely hard to find in good condition nowadays, new units are available from <https://www.autoelectricsupplies.co.uk/> they are identical but do not have the Lucas branding for obvious reasons. They can also supply a specially built alternator for a Big 6, they call them Dynators and then there are dummy voltage regulators that can be used with the donator to preserve original looks. Check out their website, it will save a lot of time using new instead of messing around with S/H parts.
